All exhibitors must adhere to health and safety regulations in place at the venue. In most cases, satisfying health and safety regulations are a matter of exercising common sense. For example, companies must not run multiple adapters off one power point; all trip hazards are to be avoided or, if essential, clearly marked; items secured to stands must be properly restrained, equipment and exhibits must not interfere with aisle space; emergency exits must not be obscured; and vehicles on site must be marshalled and driven with due care and attention.
 All Exhibitors are required to complete this Health and Safety Risk Assessment prior to arrival on site and return a copy to ADS Group Ltd. If you need assistance or have any further queries please contact me.
